21st Century Apprenticeship

These are tough economic times but there's never been a more important time for Registered Apprenticeship, the public workforce system, education and other partners to collaborate to get more Americans skilled and ready to compete for good-paying jobs as our economy recovers and puts people back to work.

Web Address : <http://21stcenturyapprenticeship.workforce3one.org>

Green Jobs

The Green Jobs Community of Practice (CoP) serves as a platform for workforce professionals and green job thought leaders to discuss and share promising practices to create partnerships for Green Job Workforce Solutions and leverage Recovery Act investments. The Green Jobs CoP will provide an interactive platform for providing technical assistance through webinars, discussion boards, blogs and other online resources to workforce professionals, particularly those at the State and Workforce Investment Board levels as well as green jobs grantees (including recipients of upcoming SGAs). It is a community for all federal agency workforce professionals who focus on green jobs and the workforce's role in building a green economy.

Reemployment Works

In order to address and overcome the crucial challenges facing our economy, we need to Re-Design, Re-Energize, and Re-Focus our traditional Re-Employment system. Our philosophy is to cultivate a regionalized response that encourages innovation in the workforce reemployment system, through the creation of a new and unified vision to reemploy the unemployed.

Regional Innovators

In today's changing economy, it is increasingly critical for key stakeholders in US regions to work together to assess their economic landscape, align and leverage assets, promote innovation, and collaborate to develop talent, create new strategies, and generate economic growth. This site offers resources to assist regional stakeholders with efforts to create and implement a regional economic vision, and to promote economic growth.
