PROGRAM DESCRIPTION

ETA's Internet-Based Assistance includes electronic tools that help individuals explore career opportunities and occupations, either electronically or at local One Stop Career Centers, to make informed employment and education choices. The Web sites feature user-friendly occupation and industry information, salary data, career videos, education resources, career exploration assistance, and other resources that support talent development in today's fast-paced global marketplace. Users can find information, some of which is also industry-sponsored, about occupations that are in demand in high growth industries. Additionally, information is available regarding occupational skills and workplace competencies.

PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS/INNOVATIONS

- America's Service Locator has a new look and feel. It is easier than ever to locate local One Stop Career Centers and other employment-related services. Workforce system contacts and strategic partners such as Workforce Investment Boards, community colleges, local employers, and more can be found there.
- Career Voyages introduced a new Green Jobs section for information and resources on this growing employment sector.
- The Competency Model Clearinghouse released two new Industry Models: Transportation, Distribution, and Logistics Competency Model, and Mechatronics.
- The crosswalk data for the Military Occupational Classification (MOC) has been updated from the latest release (April 2009) by the Department of Defense. Over 8,700 MOC occupations are linked to related O*NET-SOC occupations to help transitioning military personnel locate appropriate civilian jobs.
